Dust Control

In the past six months or so, the Escanaba area has been embroiled in controversy over air pollution. The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air was formed, there has been national newspaper and television publicity. local meetings. The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission, the state body charged with the enforcement of state air pollution control statutes, even came to Escanaba for a meeting last month. And, of course, the County Board of Supervisors has before it an ordinance drafted by the Save Our Air group which, if adopted, would provide local rules on top of the state

There isn't much question that The Mead Corp. by announcing plans to construct a kraft process pulp mill at its Escanaba publishing papers center along the Escanaba River triggered the local concern. Pulp mills using the same process in other areas have contributed odor problems to the population.

But the pulp mill, while it may have been at the root of the problem, is not now the only concern. The Chicago & North Western Railway Co. ore terminal in Escanaba was cited by the Save Our Air group and others to the Air Pollution Control Commission and it might logically be expected that other industries in the area who are contributing to the total air pollution problem will be placed on notice.

Basically, two situations are involved—the case of the expanding industry (Mead Corp., for example) which expects an air pollution possibility and incorporates financing and design for controls into its planning and the case of a polluting industry (C&NW, for example) which has a problem and must take steps to abate it.

And, from a layman's point of view, the first approach appears to be infinitely better than the second, both from an industry standpoint and for the public, which wouldn't be subjected to discomfort if controls were installed in the first place.

In almost any process which is a source of air pollution — whether it be smoke, odor or dust — institution of controls after the process is operational has to be monumentally more difficult and costly than incorporating controls in the initial design. Certainly, the installation of control equipment would be easier at the time of construction than later when equipment probably would need expensive modifications.

This is what is disturbing about the ore terminal, which started operation earlier this year and is a new facility.

Two conclusions are possible: 1, that Chicago & North Western Railroad Co. officials were aware that the terminal would generate a of its school establishment. dust problem and because of the expense involved or the design modifications necessary to include controls elected not to have them installed, or 2, that C&NW officials did not believe there would be a dust of the magnitude currently being generated and considered special controls unnecessary.

From the standpoint of the public — and the City Council of Escanaba which assisted through municipal bonding in the financing of the project — it can only be hoped that the second conclusion is correct.

A member of the Michigan Dept. of Public Health who was in Escanaba with the Air Pollution Control Commission said the C&NW was not issued a permit to construct the facility as Mead Corp. now will need for its pulp mill, because, perhaps, the planning for the terminal predated state standards or, perhaps, no problem was indicated.

But if the railroad knew of the problem, or certainly the possibility of a problem, before the terminal was constructed and failed to inform the people of Escanaba, the City Council and the State of Michigan before the terminal was started then it is guilty of a fraud on the community, which apparently was unsuspecting of the dust. And, if the City Council knew of the likelihood, or even possibility, of a dust problem before it approved financing for the project then it also was guilty of violating public trust when it agreed to the financing plan.

What is done, however, is done. The terminal is built and is operating and whether or not the dust problem was anticipated or unexpected no longer matters.

Railroad officials have indicated they are concerned about the problem and are working on a solution. They should receive every cooperation — and impetus if needed — from the City Council, Board of Supervisors and State of Michigan to resolve the situation as quickly as possi-

Intermediate Officials Oppose Own Cutback

By JEAN WORTH

Of Panax Newspapers Gov. William Milliken's Commission on Educational Reform has suggested changes in the state's educational establishment including doing away with the intermediate school districts and it is apt to be a lively issue as the Upper Peninsula examines the proposals.

The U. P. insists that it is a special case and deserves special treatment and Lansing agrees but infers that it needs some guidance, that the U. P. lacks strong citizen leadership in educational matters and is likely to follow the leadership

The school establishment (the professional educators) are apt to be for continuing the intermediate school districts in the Upper Peninsula

There are seven intermediate school districts in the Upper Peninsula. Their leaders are organized in the U. P. Intermediate School District Superintendents Association and in October it went on record in favor of continuing the present concept of intermediate school districts, with possible enlargement in scope or duties in some areas

Six or Seven?

superintendents also spoke for six intermediate districts in the U. P., or the equivalent one district with six satellite organizations doing the same things that the intermediate districts are doing

(Menominee is at present the only one-county intermediate district in the U. P., and the superintendents see it hooking onto the neighboring Delta-Schoolcraft, or Dickinson-Iron Intermediate Districts as a natural evolution.)

The intermediate school districts evolved out of Michigan's changing structure of school districting. They are the direct heir of the old county school commissioner, or county school superintendent's office, which served the little local school districts without a superintenand which had countywide duties like conducting the school census.

Duties Shriveled With school district consolidation, the county school superintendent's duties shriveled to a point where he suffered the Upper Peninsula's reported chronic problem of underemployment. He conducted the school student headcount and tried to appear busy And then the Legislature in 1960 created the intermediate school districts and redefined the duties of the expiring county school superintendents and put them (in most cases) into districts embracing several counties. In the Upper Peninsula the intermediate districts created by this process were: Eastern U. P. consisting of Chippewa, Mackinac and Luce counties; Delta-Schoolcraft; Marquette-Alger: Iron-Dickinson; Copper Country, consisting of Baraga, Houghton and Keweenaw counties, Gogebic - Ontonagon, and Menominee.

the district property tax, but from state and federal funds, mostly devoted to this major interest of special education, which means special aid to school children who are either physically or mentally handicapped.

The local school districts are eligible for the aids administered by the intermediate district, says Supt. Walter J. Mc-Clintock of the Delta-Schoolcraft Intermediate District, and in most instances the intermediate district cooperates with the local districts which present the programs and does not sponsor them itself.

Handicapped Programs

The physically or mentally handicapped child has always been a concern of all school districts, but practically not much was done for them in some districts. They were the exceptions, the troubled, the handicapped, and the schools were often hard-put to instruct those without handi-The handicapped were caps. ed with the "normal" students. so it was difficult to organize special treatment for them. This could be done best by organization which gathered more of them together for the special education designed to help them.

This situation helped enlarge the activities of the intermediate districts.

And there was also the state and national trend toward larger school district organization which favored the growth of the intermediate districts. They seemed to inherit the state's special blessing as its agencies for the administration of state programs.

Districts Flourished

They flourished. Hagle Quarnstrom, the last Delta County school superintendent, had a modest establishment. The Delta-Scholcraft Intermediate District now headed by McClintock has blossomed. Its 1968-69 general fund budget was $25,248 (of which $13,748 was from local property taxes) and for 1969-70 it is $41,615. The special education budget for 1969-70 sets up spending of $251,575 and projects a balance of $75,000.

It has a staff of 13 professionals, plus clerical workers. Included are the superintendent, a director of special education, and a coordinator, therapist and teacher counselor in speech and hearing; two consultants, and two teachers of the trainable in mental retardation; a psychologist and three social workers in pupil personnel services.

Serve 900 Students

There is no comparable staffing in the 10 local districts in the two counties (10 in Delta) of the Intermediate District which has 13,000 students in public and private schools. Of this number 900 are being served in the special education program this year (physically handicapped, retarded, speech deficiencies, deaf and hard of hearing, blind and partially seeing, diagnosis of psychological maladjustments, etc.) and the total number of students estimated to need special education totals 1,400.

The means for special education in Delta-Schoolcraft have education. Every U. P. inter- never been as large nor has the adequate financing, or vital administration, most intermediate districts play no important role in educating our children. The future holds no meaningful place for them in their present form."

Mrs. Katherine G. Heideman, superintendent of the Copper Country Intermediate School District, replied for the U. P. superintendents: "The Peninsula should be divided into six intermediate districts, not one (as proposed by the Educational Reform Commission.) One district for the U.P. is unworkable, unrealistic, actually unbelievable . . . . It would cause a deterioration of education for our children in "The regional board of education as outlined for the U.P. would be composed of 83 persons. Even after reorganization (and elimination of K-8 school districts) the number of persons (representing local boards) would still be approximately 38. How can such a board

"Many of the programs outlined for the region are already being carried out in the U. P. -special education, adult education, community schools, inservice workshops.

"Transportation could not be administered effectively from one office in the U. P. The miles school buses drive in the U. P. throughout one year are staggeringly in the millions.

"What you are doing in the U. P. regional plan is setting up a costly bureaucracy that we don't need and that won't "House Bill 3141 which reduces the number of intermediate districts in the state from 60 to 30-35 has been approved unanimously by the Intermediate Superintendents Association. It is enough of an adjustment to make at this time. Under this plan the U. P. could have six districts . . . . Education on the intermediate level does not deserve the unkind words written about intermediate districts. Perhaps there should be separate guidelines for the Upper Peninsula and the Lower Peninsula."

Opening lead-six of spades. An interesting point of bidding is raised in this hand played in the Sweden-U. S. match in 1953.

When Wohlin and Larsen held the North-South cards for Sweden, the bidding went as shown. Larsen got no further than three hearts, making four, and could also have made three no-trump.

Undoubtedly, Larsen's unenterprising bid of two hearts was the root of the trouble. True, he made amends to some extent by later bidding three hearts, but this sequence was still not strong enough to excite Wohlin into bidding a game.

Larsen undoubtedly thought there was little chance for game after East-West had both intervened, but he should have exhausted every possibility there was by making a stronger bid than two

Thus, he could have jumped to three hearts and Wohlin would surely have bid three notrump to score the vulnera-

When Ted Lightner. New York expert, playing with this writer, held the South hand, the bidding went:

East West North Pass 2NT Pass 3 NT

Lightner's two notrump bid was surely unusual, since he did not rebid his powerful hearts, but he was much more concerned with representing game-going potential of his hand than he was with spelling out its details.

From his view a nine-trick notrump game seemed much closer than a game in hearts, and he therefore showed the flexibility of his hand by suggesting notrump after having bid hearts earlier. At the same time, Lightner did not exclude the possibility of a heart contract if I had heart support and distributional values.

Holding the North cards, it was automatic for me to raise to three notrump, and this was easily made. Three notrump turned out to be the superior contract, since four hearts would have gone down if West had had a singleton club. King Features Syndicate

Dear Mrs. L.: It's hard to believe that in America we need shelter stations where kids on their way to and from school can run when they need protection. But it's one of the tragic realities of our time and we must face it. My thinks to you for writing and a garland of roses to the Emporia, Kansas Board of Education.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 38year-old bachelor of average looks and personality. I have an average position and I live in an average apartment. My problem is women.

I am taking out five different ones at present. They all have the same goal in mind - marriage. These are not silly, frivolous girls. They are between 32 and 45 years of age. I am happy in my present state and have no desire to settle down. I might reconsider one day, but for the time being I want no ties.

In case you think I am imagining things, I'd like to give you a few sample sentences. Miss A said to me after two dates, "You'll be 40 in two years and that's no kid anymore. You need to settle down. I'm willing to give up my freedom and marry you." Mrs. B. (a widow) said after four dates, "If we an area with as much smog as were married, our combined incomes would enable both of us to live a lot better than either of us is living now. How about it?" Miss C (a career girl) said after two theater dates and one concert: "I am not a loose woman, but I would consider going to bed with you if you told me you had marriage in mind." I hate to come right out and say, "I am not interested in marriage." I said that once and the woman bawled for two hours. Please tell me how to make my position clear without hurting anybody's feelings. - No Strings Monroe

TEEN CONCERN

The problem of the sulfate mill (Editor's note - the kraft process pulp mill planned by Mead Corp. for the Escanaba Paper Co.) is not only a problem for adults, but also for the teenagers of the community.

I feel, among many others, that we should be proud of the fact that we have the cleanest air in the United States. People from all over the country come to visit the Escanaba area because of the beauty and smog-

If you ever stopped to really think about it, we could lose money in this project because people from the larger cities aren't going to want to visit they have. As long as mone hasn't been spent on this yet, why start it and find that it is wasted. Therefore, the reason for this sulfate mill, I feel, is senseless.

Do you want to live in an area with polluted air? Your answer will probably be "No" Then let's do something about this problem now.

> Carole Wils 1610 Dakota Ave., Gladstone

(Editor's Note: No smog problem from the proposed pulp mill is anticipated. The Delta County Citizens Committee to Save Our Air and others are concerned, however, about the possibility of an odor problem from the pulp mill.)

UAW Eyes $500 Month Pension After 30 Years

DETROIT (AP) - A group within the United Auto Workers kicked off a campaign over the weekend to make the union's No. 1 demand in 1970 new contract bargaining a $500 monthly pension after 30 years service, regardless of age.

Current three-year contracts covering more than 700,000 workers in General Motors, Ford and Chrysler plants run out next Sept. 14.

A "30 And Out" rally Sunday attracted approximately 1,000 persons, many of them local union presidents and delegates who attended a special Saturday convention which increased strike benefits $10 weekly across the board.

Jack Wagner, elected campaign chairman, said many more would have attended the rally had the convention not been compressed into a single day. It originally was to have met both Saturday and

Wagner is president of the big UAW Buick local at Flint, Mich., and the turnout was sufficiently large to attract UAW President Walter P. Reuther, who told cheering members the leadership "will fight for any program the rank and file wants it to fight for."

Reuther carefully avoided en-Howard, 32, Detroit was fatally lege plans to increase its fees dorsing "30 And Out," however, The group says the Metropol- shot Saturday while allegedly for tuition, room and board next telling the rally that new contract goals will be left to a convention scheduled for Atlantic

He added, however, he was "sympathetic toward putting quate level on our (bargaining) agenda." Wagner said "30 And Out" advocates also want to tie the proposed $500 monthly pension to the cost of living index, moving up with it, but never falling below $500.

Under current contracts with the Big Three it is possible for a worker with 30 years service to retire at age 60 with a $400 monthly pension. But a portion of this cuts out when his Social Security cuts in at age 65.

Nader Asking Highway Safety lest Release

WASHINGTON (AP) - Safecrusader Ralph Nader, citing instances of seat bellt, brake fluid and tire failures, Sunday urged Secretary of Transportation John Volpe to release quickly the results of National Highway Safety Bureau compliance program tests. In a letter to Volpe, Nader said "when vehicle defects are discovered that violate standards under the compliance program, time becomes of the essence to notify motorists who are driving these vehicles."

"Otherwise," Nader said, 'avoidable casualties will occur and the manufacturers will continue to produce or sell existing vehicles with these defects."

Nader noted Volpe's decision last month to release test results, but said "it is most discouraging to learn that long existing reports will emerge in the next few weeks piecemeal and with less than full disclosure."

To date, Nader said, about a fourth of nearly 4,000 tests on seat belt assemblies have failed to meet one or more sections of the Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard.

Brake fluids manufactured by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler have failed safety standards, he said, and a "shocking number" of tire failures have been reported.

But none of these reports was released to the public, Nader

Father-Son Duo Snares Coach, Lineman Awards Upper Peninsula history was made Saturday afternoon at the Dells Supper Club in Escanaba when the U. P. Sportswriters Association gave special honors to a father and son combination as the Coach of the Year and the Lineman of the Year.

Receiving this unusual distinction were Don Pfotenhauer and his son Tom, both big reasons behind the Gladstone Braves' 6-1-1 season record and league championship in the Great Lakes Conference.

Other special honors given by the sportswriters went to Joe Pertile of Ironwood as the Back of the Year and the Menominee Maroons as the Team of

Sports Show Is Well Attended

Saturday's day-long Sports Show attracted a large number of people who visited exhibits set up in the new gym of the high school.

The area merchants who took part were very pleased with the response and hope the show can be an annual affair, according to Mrs. Jeanne Larson, acting chairman of the Retail Division, Manistique Area Chamber of Commerce.

A winter fashion show at 7:30 Saturday night concluded the day's activities. Gift certificate awards went to Don Gilroy of Manistique, $15; Jim Johnson, 500 Range St., $10; and Ruth Rogers, 114 N. Second Area merchants taking part in the Sports Show included Nelson's 66, Northern Woolens, People's Store, Soder's of Curtis, Bluebird Sales and Service, U.S. Forest Service, Watson's Marina of Curtis, Wood's General Tire, LaCroix Small Engines, Frank's Sport Center. Blaney Park Resort, Gamble's, Lauerman's, J. C. Penney Company and Mark Motors.

It's been just 3 years ago my love that you left me for that wonderful home above. It seems so much longer I gave you that goodby kiss. God and I only know how you are missed. I hope and pray you are happy with God, my dear. Because it is ever so lonely and sad since you've been gone from here. you've been gone from here. So please God I know you'll take care of him up there wherever you go. Because you, God, only know how much I miss him so. Teach him, dear God, your own special ways. Then, knowing you're doing that, I'll also have happier days.

Film Industry's Pornographic Movies Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) - The film industry's self-imposed rating system has resulted in a rash of pornographic movies, says the president of the 75theater Walter Reade Organiza-

"This pornography has not gone begging," said Walter Reade Jr. "Exhibitors all over the country, hiding behind the implied shield of the X rating have renounced their personal responsibility for the films they choose and play."

Reade told the National Association of Theater Owners' board of directors Sunday that the year-old code is a failure.

He said newspapers and radio and television stations have imposed a form of advertising and editorial censorship based on the rating of a film.

"Newspapers all over the country-San Diego, Reno, Oklahoma City, Phoenix, Indianapolis, Miami, in several Iilinois towns, to name a fewhave decided that X-rated films can no longer be advertised on their pages. In some cases they have also refused any editorial space to these films.

"Now in the past we've run into cases where specific ads or titles were unacceptable but never before this blanket blackball and never before has the ban been extended to cover the news columns as well as the advertising space.

"This, I suggest, is the direct result of the code and rating 1954 FORD 1/2 ton pickup. $125. Dial system that was to save us from censorship," Reade said. "It should also be noted that this ban . . . is practiced by a growing number of TV and radio stations across the country.'

The X rating means youngsters—the age limit varies from 16 to 18 depending on the community-are not to be admitted to see a film.

But, said Reade, "we all know how few youngsters get turned away from X pictures. We all know how many times the X has been used to add to, rather than to restrict the potential audito restrict the potential audience.

Inis is not a proud position for we exhibitors to enjoy, considering the many years of service to our communities and the good will we have sought to establish," he said.

Delay Possible In Measure On Meat-Packing

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration is expected to support a proposed year's delay in implementing a new law setting minimum nationwide standards for intrastate meat packing plants, according to government sources. If the delay-in the form of a Senate bill-is not approved by Congress and signed by the President by Dec. 15, the 1967 Wholesome Meat Act becomes effective despite reports the states are not prepared for it. The law covers about 16,000 plants packing 15 per cent of the nation's meat.

Packers dealing in more than one state are already subject to federal inspection. The 1967 act requires states to set up standards for plants operating entirely within their boundaries, and the regulations have to be at least as tough as those governing their interstate competitors. Under the law, however, a state making progress toward meeting the standards can be given an extra year to complete the Agriculture Department officials have said for several months that they expect very few states to be making even satisfactory initial progress by Dec. 15, therefore allowing the department to move into the states with federal inspectors. To date, no state has been certified as having met the requirements.

Consumer protection crusader Ralph Nader has criticized the department for dragging its heels on pushing for compliance and called the department "far more solicitous of packer protection than consumer protection."

Nader said last July that Agriculture Department sources told him that no state will be able to meet the deadline, "or, for that matter, a December 1970 deadline."

Reattached Arm Appears Okay

WAYNE, Mich. (AP) - Ten days after they reattached the arm lost by a Michigan garbage collector in an accident, doctors at Wayne County General Hospital report the operation has been successful.

"The body has not rejected the limb, the danger is past, said Dr. H.J. Wells, hospital superintendent reported.

However, he held out little hope that Donald E. Musser, 35, of Belleville, Mich., will ever have full normal use of the

His arm was severed at the elbow while trying to load a bedspring into a packer garbage truck Oct. 29.

Musser said his arm was caught by a packer blade as he tried to force a projecting spring ahead of it. "The arm and hand will be better than an artifical one and far, far better than what he could have expected," said

Wells. A team of medical experts performed the surgery soon after the accident. Wells credited the quick action of three Westland policemen who applied a tourniquet, and the immediate availability of a surgical team at the hospital for the success. The policemen recovered the severed arm by rummaging through the garbage truck and rushed it to a hospital. It was treated by doctors to keep it from dying before it was rejoined. The doctor said much additional medical attention, including surgery and therapy, would be required. "If he had been a concert violinist, he would be in real trouble," the doctor said.
